Dr. Shipherd Honored.

Professor H. R. Shipherd, formerly of Gettysburg, now in the English Department at Harvard, has been named by President Lowell of Harvard University to undertake for a wealthy Chicago merchant, the investigation of a Baconian cipher which it is thought, has been discovered in the Shakespeare Folio of 1623 and in other Elizabethan books.

It is believed that the cipher used is the bi-literal one, which requires two slightly different type forms for each letter, and which is explained and illustrated by Bacon in the "De Augmentis." The investigation is a complicated one, and requires expertness both in Shakespearean and typographical matters, but it has no connection with the notorious question of the authorship of the plays, for its purpose is to ascertain merely whether the supposed cipher exists where it seems to, and not at all whether the deciphered messages are true or were authorized by Bacon.

Dr. Shipherd is spending considerable time in Chicago studying the books in question.

Automobile Accident Fatal.

S. B. Brodbeck, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Brodbeck of Brodbeck's Station, York county, was found fatally injured under his automobile which had turned turtle about one mile from his home early Sunday morning.

As there was no witnesses, little can be determined concerning the accident, but it is believed he had been lying under the car for nearly three hours before being discovered. His skull was fractured and he was injured internally.

Mr. Brodbeck, who was 24 years old, was a nephew of Congressman-elect A. R. Brodbeck, and for some time has been proprietor of the general store at Brodbeck's, formerly owned by Lewis Barbehenn.

Teachers' Institute, Monday, Nov. 20.

The Ionian Sereaders, Miss Emily Gernand, cello, and an accompanist, Miss Ruth Skeel, mezzo-soprano; Miss Alene H. Burress, violin, and Miss Ruth Meeker, reader. The Ionian Sereaders is composed of four young women who sing, read and play both in ensemble and individual selections. They are thus able to present a program of great interest and variety. It was a happy thought on the part of this company to revive the use of the accordion as a concert instrument. The quartet numbers on the accordions by the Ionian Sereaders have been received with great favor not only as a musical novelty but also on account of their intrinsic merit. The concertina, a similar instrument, patented eighty-five years ago by Sir Charles Wheatstone, has been more largely used in symphonic music and especially as a solo instrument.

Chicago, January 1, 1915.

One of the most thoroughly interesting entertainments we have ever had, was given here by the Ionian Sereaders on New Year's afternoon. Their singing, playing and reading, was enjoyed by all—P. C. Atkinson, Sec., Hyde Park Y. M. C. A.

Visiting California.

G. E. Kane of Gettysburg, was a recent visitor at the big exhibit of Southern California products maintained free to the public in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. He also attended the lectures, moving pictures and concerts that are a part of the daily program. The exhibit is the largest of any in the country maintained by a commercial organization. Mr. Kane expects to visit the Panama-California International Exposition at San Diego, which will remain open all year.

Union Thanksgiving Service.

At the meeting of the local Ministerium held in the Presbyterian Church this week it was decided to hold a Thanksgiving church service on Thursday evening, Nov. 30. The service will be held in the Methodist Church at 7:30 o'clock and the Rev. Paul R. Pontius, pastor of the reformed church will deliver the sermon.

Officers for the Ministerium were elected as follows: President, Rev. W. R. Glen; Secretary and Treasurer, Rev. Paul R. Pontius.

Rural Carriers Banquet.

The annual banquet of the York-Adams county rural carriers will be held at the City Hotel, York, on Wednesday evening, November 23.

NOVEMBER COURT IN SESSION

BERT HAMME OF McSHERRYS-TOWN FOUND NOT GUILTY.

The Only Civil Case Tried, Bowers vs. Warner, Went to the Jury on Friday.

The November court convened on Monday morning, President Judge D. P. McPherson and Associate Judges W. Howard Dicks and E. P. Miller presiding.

Constables were first called, sworn and presented their reports. The following being the special matters returned by them:

In Straban township the road from Bonneauville road to Mt. Joy line, road from Geo. Stock's farm to Lincoln Highway, and road from Hunt-erstown to W. M. R. R. were reported out of repair. Process was directed whenever the District Attorney should ask for the same. A bastard child was reported, mother Emma May Little and reputed father Harper Witters. Process was awarded for latter.

In Latimore township the Baltimore road was reported out of repair and in a dangerous condition, and also the Latimore road was out of repair. Process was awarded.

In Reading township the Berlin road from Reeser's bridge to East Berlin bridge was reported in bad condition.

In Liberty township a bastard was reported born, mother Maybell Kime and reputed father Donald Sites. Process was awarded for latter.

In Butler township portion of road from Dr. Dill's farm to point beyond Martin Crumm buildings on Newville road, was out of repair.

In Franklin township the road from James Cole's to Edward Hall's was reported not in good shape.

In Berwick township a few of the roads were reported out of repair but supervisors working on same.

John F. Sharets of Cumberland township, and H. T. King of Germany township, were appointed stipstaves for first week of court. J. J. McSherry of Hamiltonban township, and Harry B. Beard of Highland township, for the second week, if there should be court. The November court, however, will conclude this week.

The grand jury was called and sworn and charged by Judge McPherson upon their duties. E. P. Sachs of Gettysburg, was appointed foreman.

The Grand Jury acted on three indictments finding all true bills.

Com. vs. Bert Hamme, assault and battery on oath of Pauline Stump, was found a true bill.

Com. vs. Bert Hamme, charged on oath of Pauline Stump with attempted rape, was returned a true bill.

Com. vs. Esther Harbott, charged on oath of Agnes Small with larceny of $1.00 and some other small items, was returned a true bill. Case was continued to the January court.

The only criminal trial was that of Com. vs. Bert Hamme, charged by Pauline Stump with attempted rape, alleged to have been made in defendant's slaughter house in McSherrytown. The jury found the defendant not guilty by direction of the Court, the evidence being insufficient to make out charge.

The criminal business of the court was concluded on Tuesday. The Grand Jury were discharged Monday evening.

Miscellaneous.

The Court appointed D. F. Stitzel auditor of Latimore township.

Sale of the real estate in estate of Mary M. Riffe deceased, was confirmed.

Sale of real estate in estate of Vincent P. Little, deceased was confirmed.

The civil trial list contained fourteen cases one of which was tried and the rest were settled or continued.

SUFFRAGISTS ORGANIZE.

Mrs. Seaks Will Head County Organization.

About fifty women representing many districts of the county attended the suffrage meeting in the Court House on Friday afternoon. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Elsie Singmaster Lewars, president of the Gettysburg society. The session was opened with a report on county suffrage work by Mrs. Helen Keith. A county organization was formed with the following officers: Chairman: Mrs. George Seaks, New Oxford; Secretary, Mrs. Charles Yeager, New Oxford; Treasurer, Mrs. Josiah Prickett, Flora Dale.

Besides the officers there are eight or ten vice presidents, each one of whom is the head of a smaller society in the county association.

The meeting was addressed by Mrs. E. E. Kiernan of Somerset and Miss Myra Dock of Graffenburg. Mrs. Kiernan, who is Fourth Vice President of the State Association, gave a most impressive talk on suffrage work and what is means and delighted the audience with her forceful presentation of her subject. Miss Schlichter, a state worker, will remain in York and Adams counties during the next two weeks and aid in the formation of new societies.

WEDDINGS OF THE WEEK

KLUNK-SNEERINGER NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED.

James B. Marshall Marries Baltimore Bride—Rudisill-Ehrhart Wedding in New Oxford.

Klunk-Sneeringer.—On Wednesday morning at seven thirty o'clock a very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Hanover, when Miss Sara H. Sneeringer of that place became the bride of John Wm. Klunk of McSherrytown. The ceremony took place during high nuptial mass conducted by Very Rev. James A. Huber. He was assisted by Rev. Joseph R. Murphy, rector of St. Vincent's Church, Midway, and Rev. L. Aug. Reutter, rector of St. Mary's Church, McSherrytown. The bride wore a traveling suit of blue chiffon broad cloth and carried a bouquet of Bride's roses. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. George L. Adams, the latter being a sister of the bride. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, the color scheme being carried out with pale pink chrysanthemums which also formed the bouquet carried by Mrs. Adams. The organist was John Brady. The bride is a daughter of the late Frank Sneeringer, a prominent citizen of Conewago and a member of the State Legislature for two terms from Adams county. She spent several years as a student at Mt. St. Joseph's College, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, graduating from that institution second in her class. Later she entered the York School of Business, specializing in mathematics bookkeeping and stenography, and for five years she was an instructor of these branches in that institution. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. X. Klunk of McSherrytown. He is a prominent member of Hanover Council, Knights of Columbus, and for ten years or more he has been very successful in the plumbing business, which he conducts in McSherrytown. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Adams where the bride resided. Upon their return from a wedding trip to Philadelphia, New York and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Klunk will occupy their newly furnished home in McSherrytown.

Marshall—Addison.—A pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Addison, 1908 Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md., on Tuesday, November 7, when their daughter, Ada Irene, was married to James B. Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Marshall, of Fairfield, by the Rev. H. P. Jackson. The parlor was decorated with palms and ferns, which formed a canopy under which the wedding party stood. The bride was attired in white embroidered net over white silk with veil draped with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Miss Carrie Kilham was bridesmaid. She wore a gown of pink messaline over ecru lace and carried pink chrysanthemums. Wallace Addison, brother of the bride, was best man, and Miss Mabel Addison, a sister, was flower girl. She wore an empire dress of pink silk and carried pink chrysanthemums. Master Milo Giles, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Marshall left for an extend trip North, which included Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall spent this week with Mr. Marshall's parents in Fairfield.

Rudisill-Ehrhart.—Miss Agnes O. Ehrhart, daughter of Mrs. Mary Ehrhart of New Oxford, and Franklin Rudisill of Gettysburg, were united in marriage at 4 P. M. Thursday, November 9th, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mary Ehrhart, in New Oxford, by Rev. C. W. Baker, pastor of the Lutheran Church. The bride was attired in a blue satin dress trimmed in white and wore a black velvet hat. Following the ceremony a supper was served, the following guests being present: Mrs. Mary Ehrhart, Mr. and Mrs. George Ehrhart, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Winand, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Emmert, and Mrs. C. W. Baker, of New Oxford; Mrs. Thomas Ehrhart and Mrs. Irvin Chromister of Hanover, and Misses Mary and Grace Rudisill of Gettysburg. Mrs. Ehrhart is an active church worker and president of the W. C. T. U. of New Oxford. After the supper Mr. and Mrs. Rudisill left for Hanover by automobile enroute to Baltimore and Washington. The bride's traveling suit was of brown cloth trimmed with silver fur. After Nov. 15 Mr. and Mrs. Rudisill will reside at their home on Lincoln avenue.

Feesser-Simpson.—Miss Bessie J. Simpson and Claud R. Feesser, both of Hampton, were married Saturday evening at the West Manheim Lutheran parsonage, Hanover, by the Rev. George E. Sheffer.

Prosser-Shultz.—At the Lutheran parsonage in York Springs, on last Thursday, Miss Edith Shultz and John Prosser of Latimore township, were united in marriage by Rev. Paul Gladfelter.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John N. Hersh of New Oxford, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Schmuck Hersh, to Dr. George Nicholas Acker 2nd, of New York City, on Monday evening, November 27th at half past six o'clock. The wedding will take place at the Hersh home.

Twoomey—Murray.—Francis E. Twoomey, son of Mrs. Mary Twoomey, and Margaret E. Murray, daughter of John H. Murray, both of Gettysburg, were married Friday evening by Rev. W. F. Boyle.

Teachers' Institute, Tuesday, Nov. 21.

Tuesday evening Ralph Bingham will be here. Opie Read says of him: "If humor be a gift of the gods, there was on high Olympus a mighty deal of tittering when Bingham was born. There are 'funny' men and they make us groan; there are 'humorists' that make us weep. But there are philosophers of creative mirth, and for them we are grateful. A mere jest may be of flimsy quality, but true humor is Nature's economics set to an inspiring tune. Bingham is a humorist of the highest order, because your soul laughs with his own. In his mind are all the bright colors of universal fancy; in his heart is the glow of the cherished fireside. His evening on the platform is as clean as new leaves in the forest: and you come away as from an Arden of rest, where brooks have sweetly sung."

Council and Engine.

The Town Council met last Friday evening and the suggestion was made that one of the five who previously voted against paying for the Boyd engine should move a consideration of the matter, so that the question could be further debated and considered. Not one of the five who blocked the payment of the engine that has been purchased would make the motion to reconsider, and hence matter could not be reconsidered. The majority talked about a bill for storage for engine and that they would not be responsible for any damage to engine.

The Boyd Company have been sending here all the parts that were to be supplied under the contract for which the committee in their recommendation to Council advised $200 should be retained until the parts had been received. Now all parts being here the money is due for the engine under the contract.

The Borough is going to be in a most unusual position in the event of any litigation. Borough Attorney J. D. Swope informed the Council that he advised payment of money due Boyd Company, that in his opinion no successful defense could be made and that in the event of litigation he would ask that associate counsel be employed because he did not desire to go into court representing a cause that was sure to be lost.

The position of the councilmen as unwilling to follow the advice of counsel suggests a possible complication. If Council disregarded the advice of their counsel and the litigation terminates exactly as he has advised, against the Borough, would it not be entirely within the province of the Borough Auditors to refuse to pass credit for the expenses of the litigation and throw them back on the councilmen, and it would be within the law that such expenses should then be collected from those who made them.

There is another legal possibility. If a fire took place and there was damage which was due to the want of proper fire apparatus and it could be shown that the engine was not taken to the fire because it belonged to the Boyd Company, who had the right to hold the key until engine was paid for, and it appeared that the action of the five councilmen was without any legal excuse and against the advice of the Borough Counsel, it might be possible that the law would hold the five councilmen personally for damages resulting in their illegal refusal to pay and so depriving those damaged from having had the use of the engine when needed.

The majority of the Town Council according to the information given, do not have any support from the citizens of the town who have contributed one-half of the purchase money, much of which has been paid and it is said that all these citizens are anxious that the sale be completed and the town be given the benefit of the auto fire engine, for which they generously responded in contributions.

Inspecting Streets.

Mr. G. P. Sampson, a member of the highway engineering staff of the Portland Cement Association, was in town on Wednesday for the purpose of making an examination of our streets and roads. One of the most extensive and scientific studies ever made of any type of road is being conducted by this Association of all the concrete roads in the United States. This information will be tabulated and studied so that of all the various methods that have been used, those that have been given the best results can be noted. The Association will then be in position to advise officials and communities building concrete roads as to those methods which have proved most successful. Gettysburg has a concrete street intersection at Carlisle and Lincoln avenue.

Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A Distinctive Reason

What is the chief reason for the superiority of Royal Baking Powder?

There are several good reasons, but there is one which distinguishes Royal from other baking powders.

This reason, which every woman should know, is that Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar, which comes from grapes. This means a healthful fruit origin. It means natural food as distinguished from mineral substitutes used in other baking powders.

There is no alum nor phosphate in Royal Baking Powder.

on the battlefield enumerated in the last report was 404. The following mounted guns have been added to batteries having two guns each: Two 3-inch rifles to Cushing's Battery A, Fourth United States Artillery. Two 3-inch rifles to Arnold's Battery, Rhode Island Artillery. Two Napoleon to Randall's Batteries E and G, First United States Artillery. A total of 410 guns on the field.

Two additional limbers were furnished by Maj. Calvin Gilbert and mounted with those of Cushing's United States Battery.

An additional caisson was furnished and mounted for Cushing's Battery.

Bridges and Culverts.

A new floor was put in the Reynolds Avenue Bridge, crossing the Western Maryland Railroad, and completed April, 1915. Other repairs to bridges were as follows: All the stone bridges and abutments were pointed, and a new culvert built on Section 7, on the road to Sharpshooters Monuments, in the Pitzer Woods.

Painting.

The painters have been employed principally upon renewing the coating on gun carriages, iron tablets, avenue pipe fencing, railing along avenues and on bridges, and on United States farm buildings.

Cleaning Bronze Tablets.

The lettering on bronze tablets erected by the commission to the armies, corps, divisions, and brigades have been repolished on the battlefield and on the United States Regulars Army Monument.

Mowing.

The season was backward in May, and the mowing parties went to work about the 10th of the month. There was one party with a horse lawn mower and one party with one-horse side-bar mower, assisted by mowers with scythes and hand lawn mowers for work on the banks and around monuments and markers. This work is continued until the grass stops growing in the autumn.

Maps and Prints.

The second edition of the lithographic map of the Gettysburg National Park, printed in 1913, having been entirely exhausted, corrections and additions were made to show additional work on the battlefield, and a third edition of 500 copies, 1916, has been ordered. A number of new tracings have been made from which many copies in blue print have been printed for use in continuing the work on the field and for distribution, together with many copies from previously drawn tracings, as they are called for, for various purposes. Such have been furnished in many cases in large numbers by the commission.

Book of Location of Monuments, Etc.

The fourth edition of this was placed in the hands of the printer February, 1916. The subject matter had been carefully prepared from the last edition, with additions and corrections. Five hundred copies were ordered and received May 1, 1916, and are now being distributed upon request.

A perspective drawing had been made of the Gettysburg National Park in colors, 16 by 20 inches dimensions. A contract has been awarded for 1,000 copies, which will be ready for distribution in July, 1916.

United States Marines.

On July 17, 1916, a detachment of officers of the United States Marine Corps, Capt. H. S. Snyder commanding, came to Gettysburg and took quarters in the old Pennsylvania College Building. There were ordered here for the purpose of observation, and for studying, sketching and mapping the topographical features of the battlefield.

West Point Cadets.

The graduating classes of the United States Military Academy, West Point, began to make their visits to the Gettysburg Battlefield in 1902, by order of the War Department, under the command of Col. G. J. Fiebigler, United States Army, instructor in engineering. The class of 1916 reached Gettysburg this year on May 1, returning to West Point on May 3; there were 7 officers and 125 cadets.

Farms and Buildings.

No new buildings of this character have been erected during the year. Repairs have been made to existing structures for their preservation. Eighteen properties were under lease during the year. Ninety-five acres of land acquired by the commission were added to the acreage of the previous year, making the total acreage for the year 1,399.62. Two changes of tenants were made during the year, one at the Masonheimer property and the other at the Bushman farm. Three small new buildings were built during the year at each of the following places: The Masonheimer property, the Hummelbaugh property, and the Bryan House. The tenants are required to whitewash the buildings and fencing where needed with whitewash made according to the United States Government formula.

Examinations for Battlefield Guides.

In compliance with an order of the War Department the contemplated examination of the qualification of persons who for years have been acting as battlefield guides was taken up by the commission.

On August 1, 1915, notices were published that applications would be received from persons wishing to be examined as guides. Ninety-five persons applied, almost all of whom had experience on the field. They were given written examinations in classes of 10 to 15, the time extending to October 5, 1915. Ninety-one passed the examination and were given licenses. There were three classes: Thirty-seven first class; thirty-eight second class; sixteen third class. Four failed. None were licensed under 18 years of age.

Owing to the low percentage made by those of the second and third classes, the commission notified them that instructions in the duties of guides would be given them during the months of January and February, 1916. About 90 per cent. of all that were notified reported and took the lessons, which were given in the commission rooms in classes of 10 to 20. They were advised to continue their studies and use whatever source from which they could obtain additional information relating to the duties of guides, and in April, 1916, all that wished to take a second examination with a view of getting a higher class license could do so.

Camp Grounds.

On March 20, Col. Nicholson, chairman of the commission, received a letter from the Acting Secretary of War, Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott, in regard to the large tracts of land on this field belonging to the United States, and if any suitable places would be available for camping and maneuvering purposes for several squadrons of Cavalry, in case such grounds were required during the summer of 1916. On March 24, the engineer, Col. Cope, made a report, by direction of the chairman, on the subject, and sent blue prints showing tracts of United States land formerly used for such purposes. The commission were notified by the Secretary of War that application for the land would not be made, consequent upon the abandonment of the contemplated encampment.

The U. S. Army War College.

The anticipated visit of the officers of the Army War College that was to have been made in June, 1915, to Gettysburg National Park had to be postponed, as was noted in the last annual report. The visit would probably have been made during the summer of 1916, but the chairman, Col. Nicholson, was notified that the visit would again be postponed on account of the trouble on the Mexican border.

Groves.

In clearing up the groves and other woodland of the park, many dead trees have been cut down and many fallen trees have been removed. There were 200 logs cut from these this year, of an average diameter of 17 inches, and 14 feet long. A contract was made with L. U. Collins, and with his portable saw mill he has reduced these to suitable sized lumber for the use of the carpenters in constructing and repairing United States farm buildings, etc. The cost for his services, with his mill and hands, was six-tenths of 1 per cent. per foot. Total amount of lumber felled and piled at the storage building, 18,860 feet.

Trees.

Two hundred trees were bought from W. W. Boyer & Bro., nurserymen, Gettysburg, Pa., and apportioned to the following places: Codori farm, Smith property, Hummelbaugh property, Althoff property, Meade's headquarters, and the Culp farm. These trees replaced those destroyed.

Drains.

A contract was made with Daniel C. Shealer to straighten the channel of the drain on the Culp farm, beginning at the first bridge on East Confederate Avenue, and extending (tending) to the spring, a distance of 645 feet. The drain was dug 5 feet wide at the top, 4 feet wide at the bottom, and 2 feet deep. The channel now carries off all the water and prevents any overflow on the adjoining land.

Lime.

A contract for 180 tons of lime was made with W. Oyler & Bro., lime burners, Gettysburg, Pa. This lime was hauled by the tenants and used on the Culp, Codori, Trostle, Smith, and Weikert farms and the McMillan land. An additional contract for 180 tons has been made for the coming year. The lime already has made a marked difference in the soil conditions and the production of better crops.

Fencing.

Since July 1, 1915, 5,050 feet of new post and rail fence was built. The material was furnished by the contractor, E. J. Naugle, Orrtanna, Pa. Four thousand feet additional will be built during the coming year. One thousand eight hundred feet of new fence will also be erected. Much of the old fence was repaired during the year. All of the posts were treated with the creosote-oil preparation, as in the preceding year.

Visitors.

On March 31 the Engineers Club of Pennsylvania College were at the offices of the commission. The party consisted of 1 instructor in engineering and 35 students. They were shown the relief maps and their construction explained, other maps, mechanical drawings, blue printing and process, and other work of the engineers of the commission. A short talk was given; also one by their instructor on triangulation in field surveys.

On May 29, 23 officers of the Field Officers' Class Service School of the National Guard of New York called at the offices of the commission to be shown the work of the commission as contained in their maps and numerous drawings. These officers remained in Gettysburg several days and made a very thorough study of the positions and movements of the troops in the battle.

On June 12 the New York Monuments Commission came to Gettysburg to locate positions for the statues of Gens. Robinson and Doubleday. The members were Col. Stegman, chairman; Gen. King, and Col. Beckwith, in company with the National Park Commission. The ground was selected as follows: Site for Gen. Robinson's statue, at south of the west end of Robinson Avenue in center of loop. The site for Gen. Doubleday's statue, in the center of the space between the fence and roadway on the east side of Reynolds Avenue, near right-flank marker of the One Hundred and Forty-second Pennsylvania.

Chairman.

by two sisters, Mrs. Mary Darr of York, Miss Lillian, who resided with deceased, two brothers, Charles of California, and Bert, of Detroit, Mich.

Miss Mary Margaret Hummer died Thursday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. Frank Draie, in Highland township. She had been ill for the past three months from heart trouble and dropsy. Miss Hummer was aged 73 years, 9 months and 3 days. She was born in Highland township, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Hummer and spent the greater part of her life there. About twenty-five years ago she moved to Hagerstown where she had since spent much of the time with her four nieces who live there. Last June she came back to Adams county and had been living at the Draie home. Miss Hummer, so far as known, is the last member of the family. She was a member of the Progressive Dunkard Church at Hagerstown. Funeral will be held on Sunday afternoon, meeting at the Draie home at 2 o'clock, interment at Plout's Meeting House.

Mrs. Rebecca H. Fahrney, a native of near Gettysburg died Tuesday morning in Waynesboro aged 80 years, 7 months and 29 days. She was a daughter of Samuel and Leah Hohl who lived near here. She leaves her husband, Daniel Fahrney, two sons and a daughter. Funeral was on Thursday, interment in Waynesboro.

Miss Catherine Wolf died Tuesday at the residence of her niece, Mrs. Ella Walter, Steinwehr avenue, in her 74th year. Funeral services were held Thursday evening by Rev. F. E. Taylor. The body was taken to Mt. Holly Springs Friday morning for interment.

Merl R. Wood, aged 28 years, a former clerk in the general store of J. M. Rider in East Berlin, and who with his family removed from East Berlin to Ushorn, Cumberland county, about two years ago, died at his home in that place on October 20th from typhoid fever. His wife and two small children survive.

John C. Decker, aged 62 years, formerly of East Berlin, died on October 22nd at his home in York from cancer. He leaves his wife and one son, Charles Decker, of York.

Mrs. Alice Killian, wife of Mr. Harry Killian, died at her home near Shippenburg on Monday, in her 44th year. The funeral was on Thursday. She was a member of the Lutheran Church of Shippenburg. She married Mr. Killian 16 years ago, her maiden name being Alice Finkenbinder. She is survived by her husband, mother and one son. Three brothers and four sisters survive, among the latter being Mrs. Harry Jacoby of Gettysburg, Pa.

—Mrs. J. C. Felty, Carlisle street, has returned from a week's visit with friends in Philadelphia.

The Typhoon

A Story of Japan

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Wendell had been in Japan a week when he decided to leave Nagasaki and make his headquarters in a tiny fishing village.

The motive came upon Ray Wendell the very day he decided to leave Nagasaki.

It came in the shape of a typhoon. Toward noon there was a cloud before the sun.

Everything portable was fastened as tightly as possible, and then all one could do was to pray for deliverance from the whirlwind.

Even the foreign population living in the substantially built hotels and large private residences recognized the signs of approaching storm.

A yellow light seemed to brood over the city. Birds flew restlessly among the trees and shrubs in the gardens, and mothers gathered their little ones into the house.

In the bazaars the boxlike counters were quickly telescoped, the stock in trade vanished as magically and only the swaying signboards and paper lanterns were left to rustle warning.

Wendell, walking toward the ticket office to see about reservations for his journey to the fishing village of his dreams, paused for a moment and looked down the street to the very end, where the busy thoroughfare became a jutting wharf—a choppy yellow gray sea, not a sail in sight and the shipping in the harbor rocking uneasily.

All at once the typhoon came screaming down the wind like a thousand furies let loose.

Frail roofs were lifted like paper and sailed through the air like huge kites.

Wendell gasped for breath and clung to a pole. His hat vanished and became one of other myriad flying objects. Furniture, clothing, uprooted trees, signboards, flew past at dizzying speed. People struggling against the wind turned and went with it, many to destruction.

Wendell, pausing at a corner, turned it to get away from that dizzy glimpse of the sea. He lost all sense of location.

Dogs dodged under his feet. Paper umbrellas, whose owners had neglected to furl them, were torn to shreds and went swirling through the air like huge paper kites. Signboards danced and clattered overhead.

There were shrill screams as women fled toward their frail homes. Clogs clattered on the pavements and there were tinkling crashes of porcelain as shop windows blew in and devastated the stock of some luckless merchant.

Amid the verie ringing of temple bells sounded the hoarse notes of warning whistles in the harbor. The cries of flying jinrikisha runners were lost in the pandemonium of sound.

Wendell wondered what he should do. He could not find his way back to the hotel, yet he must find some place of refuge and find it very soon.

When the blighting wind had passed over the city there might follow its aftermath—the tidal wave. Very likely the shops in the harbor were preparing to meet the shoreward thrust of the mighty waters.

Wendell tried to hail a rikisha man. He might get back to the hotel. But every vehicle was filled and his call was unnoticed. He addressed one or two fleeing passersby. He offered money to be guided to the hotel. But his offers were ignored. The wind tore the words from his lips, and no matter which way he turned he met absorbed, fear set faces or fleeing blue cotton kimonos.

"I will go with the wind," he muttered savagely, and with this resolve he rushed headlong around the next corner and with the wind at his back felt himself being led with great velocity.

The street he was now on was free from shops and he could see glimpses of red tiled roofs among the cryptomaria in the gardens. Here the wind was less violent from the roofs and he began to feel a little calmer.

Wendell was a group of Japanese students who were on their way to the university. They were walking in a group and were talking to each other. They were all looking at Wendell with interest.

It was a beautiful day, with a sign of clouds in the sky. The sun was shining brightly. The wind was blowing from the east. Wendell was walking towards the hotel. He was looking at the students with interest.

In an instant Wendell was after it, the wind that propelled the flying vehicle speeding his going. He had not dreamed that he could speed so swiftly, his feet barely touching the ground. Strange things flew past him—lighter objects—and he feared for the girl's safety.

It was growing darker now, and there was an ominous hush.

The wind seemed to pause in its blowing as if catching breath for greater effort.

In that momentary stillness Wendell reached the flying jinrikisha and, pausing it, caught up one of the poles of its shaft.

"Are you right now?" he called back encouragement to the white form in the car.

He did not catch her reply. Some words left her lips, but were lost in the sudden scream of the storm. The whole world suddenly became an up roar of wind and the lash of waves from the sea. Amid that cataclysm of sound the man and the girl and the jinrikisha tore down the hill. Wendell wondered where the insane journey would end.

His question was quickly answered.

Without warning they crashed into a hedge of some sweet smelling shrub. Wendell received the full force of the blow as he was propelled through the shrubbery on to what was apparently the lawn of a gentleman's place.

The jinrikisha stuck in the hedge. "I am all right," quavered the girl's voice out of another momentary cessation of sound.

"Good!" muttered Wendell, reaching over and lifting her from the vehicle. "Perhaps we can find shelter in the house."

They stumbled down a path and into a portico, where they paused to take breath. Wendell flashed a tiny electric light and disclosed the doorway to a temple. The large cedar doors were closed, but a smaller door further along the portico admitted them to the hush of a small temple.

Incense was drifting lazily from bronze koro on the votive tables. A large statue of Buddha loomed in the background. There was the sickly scent of dying blossoms. Somewhere up in the roof a deep throated bronze bell boomed solemnly as the wind swayed it to and fro.

"Are we safe here?" asked the girl, clinging tightly to Wendell's arm.

"As safe as anywhere in Nagasaki just now," he replied. "Sit down here and if you do not like to look at the image face the doorway."

He drew a number of clean white mats from the floor and piled them beside one of the pillars of the temple.

"Oh, I like the face of the Buddha," she hastened to say. "It is so calm and peaceful—after the storm!" She broke down and began to sob softly.

Wendell turned and went softly away. Left to herself, he argued, she would quickly recover her poise.

Within the thick walled temple one heard vague rumblings of the storm. Wendell moved slowly among the various smaller shrines and marveled at the singular absence of the priests. He decided that they had sought refuge in some safer place, perhaps some larger temple near by.

The votive table was laden with offerings of flowers, rice and wine. On the steps of the shrine was a small black lacquered box. Wendell picked it up and found it to be one of those tiny portable stoves which the Japanese are fond of using. Inside was a small brazier of glowing charcoal, and in one of the drawers were teacups and tea, and in the other compartment were tiny rice cakes. Some priest had dropped his tea equipage in his hurried flight.

Wendell blew the coals into flame, put on a tiny copper water kettle and presently made tea in the Japanese fashion in the small porcelain bowls. These he carried to the girl.

She was sitting up now, and he could see her face quite clearly. She was very lovely with wide gray eyes and sweet mouth.

"Tea?" she asked incredulously.

He nodded. "And rice cakes, too, if you want them," he said. "You will feel better afterward."

They sat together on the mats and drank the tea and ate the priest's rice cakes. When they had finished Wendell dropped a handful of coins in the box and returned it to the place where he had found it.

Listening, he decided that the storm had abated in a measure, and going to the door, thrust his head out into the portico. The world was bathed in a glory of golden sunshine.

"Come," he called to his companion. "I think we may go now."

She joined him and cried aloud at the transformation. The temple garden was in ruins. Along the roadside people were hastening to their deserted homes. The road was muddy.

As Wendell looked Alice Lovell up the hill toward the storm beaten city, a thought came into his mind. He had come to Japan to study the art of the sword.

He had heard that the art was still practiced in Japan, and he had come to Japan to study it. He had heard that the art was still practiced in Japan, and he had come to Japan to study it.

He had heard that the art was still practiced in Japan, and he had come to Japan to study it. He had heard that the art was still practiced in Japan, and he had come to Japan to study it.

STATE WILL NOT PAY ENTIRE COST

River Regulation Plans Provide For National Aid

GOVERNMENT IS INTERESTED

Although plans are being formulated to ask the next legislature to take up the question of river regulation it is not the purpose to propose that the state shall entirely finance the construction of the necessary works. It is the intention to urge that the state take the initiative in bringing about the co-operation of the federal government with the state and local committees affected and to lead in the preparation of a comprehensive plan of stream control.

It is looked upon as important at this time for the state to take a firm grasp upon its water problems. Transportation, flood prevention, reclamation, water supply and other incidents of stream flow are questions of extreme importance to the commonwealth. These questions present different aspects from the national, the state and the municipal viewpoints and their solution cannot be adequately and efficiently effected except by some plan of harmonious and co-operative action.

The State of Pennsylvania standing as it does between the federal government with multitudinous demands pressing upon it, and the counties and municipalities with their limited powers, should take the lead in the preparation of a comprehensive plan of development. It is this that the next legislature will be asked to do. With the state on record as favoring such projects it is expected that little difficulty will be met in inducing the federal government to provide its share of the cost.

To pave the way toward joint co-operation between the federal and state governments and local communities a bill has been presented to Congress by Congressman W. H. Coleman, and is now pending there. This is a bill "Providing for the control of the flood waters and the regulation of the stream flow of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers and tributaries, and for other purposes."

RALPH BINGHAM.

Ralph Bingham, another number on the forthcoming entertainment course, is a humorist who for thirty-five years has been making large audiences laugh and still is in the prime of life. This is accounted for by the fact that his first appearance was at the age of six years, when he traveled as the "Boy Orator of America." His appearances number nearly 10,000.

T. De Witt Talmage, after hearing Bingham, said: "Bless Bingham and all the apostolic college of humorists. The man that makes me laugh is my benefactor. God bless all skillful punsters, all those who mirthfully surprise us with unexpected juxtaposition of words. There is a divine mission."

Mr. Bingham is an impersonator, a humorist, a lecturer, a pianist and a vocalist. His wife travels with him and plays the accompaniment for his vocal and violin selections.

Character in Reading.

The Youth's Companion does more than entertain: it affords the reader a mental and moral tonic. Its stories are not only well told, contributed by the best writers of stories, but they maintain the standards, reflect the ideals of the best homes. They do not throw a false glamour over the tawdry things of life. Rather do they depict the courageous, the healthful, the simple—the true life of the great number with their adventures, their conflicts of temperament, their failures and successes. In 1917 The Companion will print 12 serials and story groups besides fully 250 single stories and sketches, all for $2.00. The Forecast for 1917, which we will send on request, tells all about the great features of the coming volume.

By special arrangement new subscribers for The Youth's Companion can have also McCall's Magazine for 1917—both publications for $2.10. Our two-at-one-price offer includes:

1. The Youth's Companion—52 issues of 1917
2. All the remaining issues of 1916.
3. The Companion Home Calendar for 1917.
4. McCall's Magazine—12 fashion numbers of 1917.
5. One 15-cent McCall Dress Pattern—your choice from your first number of the magazine—if you send a 2-cent stamp with your selection.

DON'T TAKE A CHANCE.

Gettysburg People Should Act in Time.

If you suffer from backache: If you have headaches, dizzy spells; if the kidney secretions are irregular.

Don't delay—likely your kidneys are sick.

Gettysburg people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here's a Gettysburg woman's experience:

Mrs. Charles Jacobs, 236 S. Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "I had an intense, racking backache and my kidneys were weak. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the People's Drug Store, gave me relief at once. Since then it hasn't been necessary for me to use such a medicine and I believe that they have given me permanent benefit."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Jacobs had. Foster-McMunn Co., Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

For and His Stay.

Charles Jacobs, Jr., asked if he had sent the pills to be had written, replied: "I have sent the pills to be had written."

STATE RIVERS REQUIRE STUDY

Legislature Will Be Asked to Investigate Streams

NEED FOR REGULATOR

The next session of the legislature of Pennsylvania will be asked to take definite steps toward the establishment of adequate plans for the regulation of rivers for the combined objects of flood prevention, aid to navigation, improved water supply and the development of water power. Consideration of this subject is now being given by communities affected by floods and the result of this work will be incorporated into a bill which will be introduced in the legislature next January.

In the Pittsburgh district a comprehensive survey and study of the watersheds of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers has been made in conjunction with the State Water Supply Commission, and this has developed a system of treatment for these rivers and the Ohio which has been approved by some of the ablest engineers of the country, including those connected with the war department at Washington, who have charge of all government river work in the country. It is generally accepted that the treatment proposed for the regulation of rivers in Western Pennsylvania can be applied with equally good results to the streams in other parts of the state.

The plan proposed for the Pittsburgh situation is in effect the construction of 17 safely built reservoirs at the headwaters of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers and their tributaries. The purpose of the reservoirs is to hold back the flood waters in times of freshets, the stored water to be released at times of drought to aid in navigation, and for other beneficial purposes. Those engaged in this investigation discovered after five years of active study that floods are increasing in volume and frequency while the periods of drought are becoming more numerous. It was, heretofore, their aim to ameliorate both conditions and this they claim they can do by the construction and operation of the reservoirs.

The field studies made by several corps of competent men under the personal supervision of public spirited Pittsburgh engineers developed the fact that natural reservoir sites actually exist whose combined capacity is sufficient to prevent the highest flood known to Pittsburgh by retarding the freshets and that the same stored waters would materially assist in maintaining a continuous navigable stage from Pittsburgh to Cairo the year round.

Many other sections of Pennsylvania have flood and low water troubles which would more than likely be relieved if the same plan that is proposed for the rivers at Pittsburgh were adapted to these streams. It is the intention of those interested at Pittsburgh to consider the river regulation problem as applied to the entire state before causing any new legislation to be introduced at Harrisburg.

RED CROSS SEAL CAMPAIGN.

15,000,000 Red Cross Christmas Seals for Pennsylvania.

Gettysburg will again take part in the great state wide sale of the Red Cross Christmas Seals for the Pennsylvania Society for the prevention of tuberculosis. The local committee in charge of this work received this week seven thousand seals and distributed them among the various business places and individuals interested in their sale. The State Society agrees that seventy-seven and a half per cent. of the proceeds from the sale of seals here may be returned to be used locally for the relief of tuberculosis sufferers and to fight the spread of the disease in our town. The committee in charge of the seals is composed of the following Gettysburg ladies: Mrs. Ella Weaver, chairman; Mrs. C. Wm. Beales, Mrs. Wayne Keet, Mrs. H. C. Allenman, Mrs. Anna Lake, Mrs. Wm. Gilbert, and Mrs. Allan B. Plank.

The Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis, 1701 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa., State Agent for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals has ordered 15,000,000 seals which will be distributed through the State in preparation for the coming sale. The Red Cross Seal campaign is the great annual reminder in the interests of health and the prevention of disease and will take place during the month of December as in former years, the seals being sold at the usual price of one cent each. This year's seal is very attractive and is considered more suggestive of the Christmas spirit than usual.

Extensive preparations are being made for a much bigger sale than ever before, and it is expected that 10,000,000 seals will be disposed of in Pennsylvania alone. Pennsylvania has been backward in this important health movement in comparison with other leading states, and stronger support than ever from local agents must be secured if Pennsylvania is to take a creditable place in this great national movement. Hundreds of local agents scattered all over the State will sell seals, and practically every town down to the small hamlet will be represented in the sale.

The field will also be developed more intensively than ever before and most cities and towns of any importance, large or small, will carry on the local organized sale, generally conducted by the leading Woman's Club. In the great majority of these towns the proceeds will go directly into local preventive work, to be employed in maintaining educational and preventive activities, including school hygiene, visiting nurse and open air schools, also aiding tuberculosis patients.

The activity and enthusiasm displayed by the Woman's Clubs all over Pennsylvania in the last two campaigns has been chiefly responsible for the wide-spread increase in organized sales and the encouraging development of local tuberculosis work under the direction of the State Society.

Churches, schools, clubs, societies and local papers everywhere will take an active part, while various publicity and selling schemes will be featured as in the past. There are many ways to sell seals, and among the most successful methods are the sale booth in public places, stores and banks, pay-day envelope among manufacturing firms, school children selling seals, canvassing business firms, lodges and clubs and selling seals by mail. The last named method in particular has been uniformly successful in the larger communities, and a decided effort will be made to promote this valuable plan in as many places as possible.

Tuberculosis Week, which was observed throughout the country during the last campaign, will be more strongly emphasized this year. The program for Tuberculosis Week offers a splendid opportunity to churches, schools and local societies of every sort to carry on important educational work by observing the three feature days of the week: Tuberculosis Day to be observed by the churches any day during the week; National Medical Examination Day, December 6th, the day appointed for universal physical examination; and Children's Health Crusade Day, December 8th, to be observed in the public schools by educational activities.

The Red Cross Seal campaign is now acknowledged to be the most important educational health movement in the country and one of the main instruments in the fight against tuberculosis, Pennsylvania's greatest enemy. Every seal sold is a bullet in the war against the great white plague, with which 75,000 to 100,000 persons in the State of Pennsylvania alone are afflicted. No town can afford to lose the educational value of the sale which, it must be remembered, is more important than the money raised. Tuberculosis is the most deadly foe of humanity. It strikes anywhere and everywhere and is met with universally among industrial and living conditions. Tuberculosis has no favorites and seeks its victims among all classes of people, so that every man, woman and child should be vitally interested in this great movement for the protection of lives and health of the people. It is hoped that every community in the State will do its share in helping dispose of the Christmas Seals allotted to Pennsylvania.

Body as Measuring Rule.

"I wish I knew the dimensions of that opening," said one man to another, "but I have no rule with me. We can verify the measurements when we get a rule."

"I suppose I'll have to come back again this afternoon and measure it."

"Well, don't let a little thing like that bother you. I have no rule, either but I'll give you the dimensions of each side within half an inch, anyway."

"My shoe is exactly 11 1-4 inches long. Make a memorandum of what I do."

"Long ago," volunteered the measurer, "more as a matter of curiosity than anything else, I suppose, I made measurements of several members of my body and remembered them. Here is the schedule. It has helped me out many a time."

"Length of forearm from tip of elbow to tip of middle finger, arm bent to form a right angle, 19 inches."

"Length of forearm from elbow to heel of palm, 11 1-2 inches."

"From heel to top of knee, leg bent to form a right angle, 23 3-4 inches."

"Length of shoe, heel to tip, 11 1-4 inches."

"Height, 5 feet 8 1-2 inches."

"Tip to tip of fingers with arms outstretched, 5 feet 8 1-2 inches."

"Extreme reach, standing on heels, one arm extended upward, to tip of middle finger 7 feet."

"With your own measurements in mind," he continued, "you cannot only measure short spaces, but you can quickly construct a ten-foot pole, or one of any length, for that matter, and measure a plot of ground, a building, a floor, the walls of a room or almost anything else, even if you haven't a rule with you. Of course, it wouldn't do for surveying."

It is easy to gauge distances if you only will make accurate measurements of your shoe soles, the span of your hand, the length of the point on one of your fingers that approximates one inch, and your height. Almost everybody has use for a measuring rod so frequently in daily life that your own measurements have a real monetary value in saving time."

Dry Victory in Maryland.

Second only to the interest in national and local issues, was the fight in Maryland sections on the wet and dry questions. All three of the adjoining Maryland counties where prohibition was an issue lined themselves with the Prohibition forces and Frederick, Carroll and Washington counties voted out liquor. As a result Frederick, Hagerstown, Westminster, Emmitsburg, Taneytown, and all the other communities in these counties will bar its sale.

It was the first time for Frederick and Washington counties to vote on the question. Carroll county has been dry for several years and again lined up on the no-license side of the fence with a majority of 682.

The majority for prohibition in Frederick county is 851. The wets and the dries waged one of the most spectacular fights in the history of the county.

Washington county goes dry by 474 after one of the most vigorous fights ever waged there for any cause. Mass meetings were held in towns and villages for a number of weeks and the feeling was so intense that at one meeting the speakers narrowly escaped being mobbed.

What Presidential Fight Cost.

Supplemental reports filed in Washington show the Republican campaign fund totaled $2,012,535, and the Democratic national campaign fund totaled $1,310,729 at the close of business Oct. 30.

The accounts to date show total expenditures of $1,886,569 for the Republicans and $1,126,762 for the Democrats.

H. C. Frick and Payne Whitney made the largest individual contributions to the Republican campaign fund with $25,000 each. The Union League clubs of Philadelphia and New York were next, with $20,000 and $13,250 respectively. A late list accounts for the contributions of 5,008 additional persons.

The most liberal contributors to the Democratic fund were Cleveland H. Dodge of New York, $20,000; Edward L. Doheny, $25,000; Thomas D. Jones and David B. Jones of Chicago, $12,500 each, and Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago, $12,000.

400TH ANNIVERSARY.

Reformed Church Plans for Reformation Anniversary.

Determined to make the year 1917, which marks the 400th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation, the most notable in its history, the Reformed Church in the United States is entering upon a Sunday School Increase Campaign, which, it is confidently expected, will increase the present membership of 350,000 to 400,000 by April 1.

Beginning with Rally Day, every Sunday School will enter upon a campaign to increase its membership 20 per cent, in addition to which a "big push" will be inaugurated to have at least 70 per cent. of the enrolled members attend every session. This 70 per cent. average attendance, of course, does not include the Home Department and Cradle Roll.

A third goal in the preparedness campaign will be to have every school attain the ten points of the Standard Efficiency in Sunday School work which, if accomplished, will place the Sunday Schools of the Reformed Church in the front rank of the national Sunday School movement.

Finally, a Children's Endowment Fund of $100,000 will be raised for the Schaff Building, which will be erected in commemoration of the 400th anniversary of the Reformation, at Fifteenth and Race Streets, Philadelphia. This handsome building will be a memorial to Philip Schaff, for 20 years a leader in the Reformed Church, and for 50 years a pioneer in this country in the great movement for church unity.

The Sunday Schools will raise the $100,000 Endowment Fund by subscribing to 20,000 participating shares at five dollars each, for which cumulative school certificates will be issued. The names of the subscribers will be enrolled in the archives of the Church.

Sunday School classes, Bible classes, teacher training classes, departments and individuals will subscribe for shares in the Endowment Fund Campaign, which will begin with Rally Day and close on Reformation Day, January 21, 1917.

Elaborate celebrations will be conducted on Reformation Day, which, by action of the General Synod, bears the name of "Educational or Reformation Day." The presentation of each school offering to the $100,000 fund will be the feature of the program. Prominent ministers and laymen will deliver addresses, and the memory of the Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff, whose writings and organizing ability gave him an international reputation, will be honored. Representatives of the Publication and Sunday School Board, which is conducting the Increase Campaign, will take a prominent part in the jubilee celebration.

The Rev. Dr. Rufus W. Miller, Sunday School secretary, who is directing the big campaign from the Reformed Church Building in Philadelphia, has called upon the Sunday Schools to "stop the leaks." He points out that 80,000 boys between the ages of 13 and 19, annually drop out of Sunday School. Doctor Miller estimates that of approximately 2,000,000 boys and girls of the teen age enrolled in the International Sunday School Association, 75 per cent. lose interest and desert the Sunday School before they are 20.

"The public schools aim at a 100 per cent. attendance of all scholars able to attend," Doctor Miller says. "Why not the Sunday School? The public school uses compulsion. The Sunday School must make its appeal through interest and enthusiasm—two prime factors in attracting and holding youth. Young people need religion presented to them in a young people's way. The better the school the easier to maintain a high average attendance. Keep a close watch on the membership. Make it difficult for any one to drop out. Fix your goal at 70 per cent. to be reached by April 1, and keep pushing it up."

In order to make the "great drive" of the Sunday Schools effective, committees of prominent laymen are being organized in cities and towns throughout the country. This will enlist the best brains and business ability the Reformed Church possesses in the campaign.

A "marching order," a watchword, and a slogan have been adopted. The marching order is "Trust in the Lord and do Good." The watchword is "Count On Me." And the slogan is "We Will See This Thing Through."

DEATH OF GEN. W. F. SADLER

FALL FATAL TO RESIDENT OF EAST BERLIN.

Jacob Brady of Buchanan Valley Succumbs to Tetanus Resulting from Kick of a Horse.

Wilbur F. Sadler, Jr., Adjutant General of New Jersey, died shortly after midnight on Friday at Thornwald, the home of his brother, Lewis F. Sadler, in Carlisle. General Sadler was ill about one month. Death was due to heart disease, which was aggravated, it is believed, by the work and excitement incident to getting the New Jersey National Guard mobilized for service along the Mexican border. General Sadler was appointed Adjutant General in 1910 and continued to serve under Governors Wilson and Fielder. It was through his ability as a general that the troops of New Jersey attained a high degree of efficiency. He was accounted to be one of the National Guard's foremost military experts. Before his appointment he was interested in electrical railway development work in Greensburg, Pa., and in Trenton, N. J. At the time of his death he was president of the Broad Street National Bank, Trenton. General Sadler was 46 years old. He was not married. He leaves his father, ex-Judge Wilbur F. Sadler, who is a native of Adams county, and his brothers, Judge Sylvester C. Sadler, Horace C. Sadler and Lewis F. Sadler, all of Carlisle.

Israel Stambaugh died at his home in East Berlin Nov. 5th from infirmities and the effects of a fall down steps a few weeks ago. He was aged 77 years, 8 months and 13 days. He was a veteran of the Civil War and was a private of Captain Ebenger McGinley's Co. C, 165th Regiment, for nine months, and a private of Captain Jacob A. Schmid's Co. I, 168th Pennsylvania Regiment for three months. He leaves two daughters, Vira Stambaugh of East Berlin, and Mrs. Patrick McCue of Baltimore. One sister, Miss Emma Stambaugh, who resided with and cared for her brother until his death, also survives.

William Dittenhafer of York died at the hospital Monday, the result of injuries sustained about a week ago when he was struck by an express train while crossing with a team at the grade crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad, at Seitzville, York county. He is survived by his wife and four children. Also one brother, John of Emigsville, and three sisters, Mrs. George Kimmel of near East Berlin, Mrs. Mary Deardorff of York, and Mrs. Albert Tschop of Harrisburg, survive. Deceased was aged 64 years.

Jacob Brady died at his home near Seven Stars on Thursday from tetanus which developed from an injury to the hand received about three weeks ago when he was kicked by a horse. Mr. Brady was aged about 60 years and was born in Buchanan Valley, where he spent the greater part of his life as a farmer, moving to Seven Stars about a year ago. He was married twice, his first wife being Miss Jane McKendrick. She died about 23 years ago, leaving these children: Emory Brady and George Brady, who live in the West; Mrs. Edward Hall of Buchanan Valley, and Miss Zita Brady of New York. After the death of his first wife he married Mrs. William Burkey of Cambria county. Besides his wife he leaves these children of the second wife: Mrs. Susan McKendrick of near Seven Stars; Frances Brady, Paul Brady, Rose Brady, Clement Brady, Lewis Brady, Eugene Brady, and John Brady, all at home.

Mrs. Adaline Elizabeth Frey died at her home in Bendersville, Friday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock from complication of diseases, after an illness of ten weeks, aged about 73 years. Mrs. Frey was a daughter of Jonah and Leah Routzahn, deceased. She is survived by four daughters: Mrs. Anna Bushman, Carlisle; Mrs. Emma Hutton, Bendersville; Mrs. Mary Seltzer, Harrisburg; Mrs. Howard Crouse, Kingsdale, and the following brothers and sisters: George Routzahn, Bendersville; Mrs. Mary Elden, Harrisburg; Mrs. Isaac Peters, Bendersville; Mrs. Emma Jacobs, York. She also leaves 12 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning, Nov. 14, meeting at the house at 10 o'clock. Services were held at the Bendersville Lutheran Church, the Rev. W. D. E. Scott, officiating.

Miss Maria Ziegler died Monday morning at her home in York. Miss Ziegler had been sick for more than two years from a complication of diseases. She was aged about 70 years. She was a daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Ziegler. She leaves the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. T. C. Billheimer of Gettysburg; Mrs. Anna Weaver, Edward B. Ziegler, Miss Louise and Miss Fannie Ziegler, all of York; Mrs. Wilson B. Hauck of Reading, and Charles Ziegler of Harrisburg. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon, interment in Prospect Hill Cemetery, York.

Mrs. Rebecca Wiest Mowry, wife of Henry Mowry, Baltimore, died in the Maryland General Hospital, that city, Wednesday, November 8, following an operation, having been ill with a complication of diseases. The deceased, who was aged 54 years, was formerly of New Oxford, having moved to Baltimore with her husband about 24 years ago. Besides her husband she is survived by a son, Charles A. Mowry, of Norfolk, Va.; a sister, Mrs. Charles Emmert, of Hanover, and two brothers, Charles A. Wiest, of Chambersburg, and William S. Wiest of Hanover. Interment was made at New Oxford on Saturday.

Mrs. Ellen J. Rider, wife of George M. Rider, died in Emmitsburg Nov. 6, aged 69 years. Mrs. Rider was born in Littlestown, but spent the greater part of her life in Emmitsburg. She leaves her husband, Geo. M. Rider, of Emmitsburg, two daughters, Mrs. George McLaughlin and Miss Gertrude Rider, of Baltimore, and seven sons, Clarence and Charles of Emmitsburg; Harry, of Wilkes-Barre; James, of Altoona; Howard, of Philadelphia; Edward, of Hagerstown, Md.; Frederick, of Baltimore. Two sisters, Mrs. Jane Eckenrode, of Wilkes-Barre, and Mrs. John T. Long of Emmitsburg, also survive.

Mrs. Amanda M. Becker, formerly of this county, died in Hanover on Tuesday morning after an illness of several weeks aged about 70 years. The family moved from Bittingers about three years ago. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McMaster of Conewago township, and leaves her husband, Henry Becker, and these children: William Becker and Mrs. Arthur Rowe of near Bittingers, Mrs. Wm. Bumm and Edward Becker of Hanover; Mrs. Samuel Nace of Guldens; Mrs. Ammon McIntire of Conewago; Miss Naomi Becker and Joseph Becker at home. She also leaves a brother and two sisters, William McMaster of near East Berlin, Mrs. Henry Butler of Edgegrove, and Mrs. John Becker of Hanover.

Daniel Shelly died at his home in Huntingdon township on Tuesday afternoon from a complication of diseases aged about 70 years. Mr. Shelly was born and lived the greater part of his life near York Springs. He followed the occupation of farming for many years, but has been in ill health for the past ten years. He was a member of the Hall P. O. S. of A. The funeral services were held on Friday morning at 10 o'clock with interment at Upper Bermudian Church. The deceased is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Jas. Clepper.

Francis R. Eckenrode, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eckenrode of Main street, McSherrystown, died Wednesday morning aged 17 days. The child leaves his parents and two sisters, Kathaleen and Elois Eckenrode.

Mrs. Ellen Crouse, wife of Milton E. Crouse, died Wednesday morning at her home in Taneytown after a several months' illness of asthma of the heart. She was aged about 69 years. Her maiden name was Miss Ellen Harner. She was married to Mr. Crouse about 49 years ago. The deceased is survived by two sons, Samuel Crouse of Taneytown, and Archie A. Crouse, formerly of Hanover, now of Lafayette, Ind.

Mrs. Sophia B. Freyberger Reiley, widow of the late Barnabas A. Reiley, died at her home on Steinwehr avenue Wednesday morning aged 83 years, 8 months and 11 days. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Mabel Reiley at home. Mr. Reiley died last spring. Funeral at 9:30 Saturday morning from St. Francis Xavier Church, interment in the Catholic Cemetery.

NOT MERE MEDICAL PROBLEM

Protection of Public Health Has Its Foundation on Broad Municipal Policy, Is Assertion.

The protection of public health is more than a mere medical problem, Dr. W. C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general, United States public health service, told the American Public Health association.

Community health cannot be called "purchasable," he said. "It must rest on co-operation and a broad municipal policy."

"A public health program for cities is in reality nothing more or less than a complete plan for communal existence," said Doctor Rucker.

"Unfortunately, health has been considered in the past solely as a medical problem and the pendulum has been enthusiastically swung so far that health is almost regarded as an artificial state to be achieved and maintained solely through the interposition of medical safeguards. Expert knowledge of disease is absolutely necessary for the work of health department, but cannot be the foundation of a broad municipal health policy. Public health is something more than a mere absence of disease. It is the physiological functioning of the community."

"The keyword in this public health policy is co-operation—co-operation having as its basis the full recognition of the fact that in its last analysis the health problem is an economic problem and as such cannot be solved without careful consideration of the economics of the community."

Patmos and John the Apostle. The little island called Patmos has an entirely Greek population of 4,000, mostly sponge fishers, and although in close proximity to Turkey, no Turks dwell on the island and no mosque has ever been erected where John the Apostle was in the spirit on the Lord's day. The only export from Patmos, according to an old geographer who visited the island a hundred years ago, was at that time cotton stockings, which were sent to Venice.

The same authority adds that there were 300 churches on the island, which, seeing that the number of dwelling houses was only 700, suggests a rather handsome surplus of places of worship. The monastery in which the name of John the Divine is perpetuated is a massive building flanked by towers like a fortress, and the visitor is shown inevitably the grotto on the mountain in which it is claimed that John wrote his book. Over the grotto a small church has been erected. The isolation of the island gives a pathetic interest to John's description of the heavenly Jerusalem when there should be "no more sea."

DISTRICT S. S. CONVENTION

FIFTH DISTRICT'S 21ST SEMI-ANNUAL GATHERING.

Address by President Knouse and Other County Officers and Clergymen.

The Fifth District of the Adams County Sunday School Association met in the 21st Semi-annual Convention at the Lower Bermudian Lutheran Church Nov. 11th and 12th, 1916.

A song service followed by Scripture lesson and prayer was led by Rev. Paul Gladfelter, pastor of the Convention Church.

After another hymn Rev. Gladfelter extended a most cordial welcome in behalf of the Lower Bermudian Church and the whole community. We have met for the honor and glory of God and we want to consult and plan for the advancement of our cause. There are one hundred millions of people in the world and only thirty millions in the Sunday Schools. Where are the rest?

Mrs. Calvin Leer responded with a few quotations from Marion Lawrence, our International Secretary. We are to give as well as get. Pray for the convention, those who help, the home where entertained. Show appreciation and friendliness. There are plenty of people here who are just as good and as bright as you are. Mixing will not hurt any of us.

The President, Mr. Starry, appointed Messrs. Wm. Hendricks, H. A. Brough, and Sherman Funt a nominating committee to report at the spring convention. Messrs. A. F. Roubush, James Chronister, and Harry Menges committee on place of meeting to report at close of this convention.

"The Call For Leadership and Efficiency"—topic discussed by Rev. A. A. Bruchhaus of Hunterstown. All kinds of organizations demand leadership today. The world is waking up to the fact that only the highest efficiency can mean success. Why not be efficient and a leader in the Sunday School? The work of a Sunday School teacher is the most honorable as well as the most arduous that any one can engage in and demands the finest training to be had. The reasonableness of training a human soul for eternity is not to be undertaken lightly. A few points that will make a Sunday School teacher a leader: 1. A living teacher.

2. Prepare the lesson from the Bible. 3. Be a live witness to the truth of salvation. 4. Must live a clean cut life. Your life tells more than things that you say on Sunday. 5. Must be baptized with the Spirit to be a soul winner. The things that you put into the minds of the boys and girls will stay with them forever and if you do not tell them about Christ who will? Some one has said in saving a man or woman you save a unit but save a boy or girl and you save a whole multiplication table. You must keep in touch with them at all times and not only for an hour on Sunday if you want to get a grip on them.

The large audience was favored with a very beautiful duet, "Rock of Ages," by Rev. and Mrs. Gladfelter, followed with "Keep Up the Fight," by the choir.

"Leaks in Church Membership"—a topic by Rev. C. W. Hipple of Wellsville. Some of the causes of leaks in Sunday School and Church membership are caused by the boys and girls getting too big to go. "The Dropping Machine." Death and removal are two causes which we cannot prevent. "Soreheads," those who become offended from some trifling cause and try another denomination. We may prevent some of these leaks by having more co-operation between pastor and members. Visit more during the week and find something for each member to do so that Satan need not find so many idle hands. Then they should be taught that it is just as important to give as to pray. Reading God's Word will do most of all to stop the "leaks." "May God Depend on You," by the choir, was followed with the benediction by Rev. Bruchhaus.

Sunday Morning.

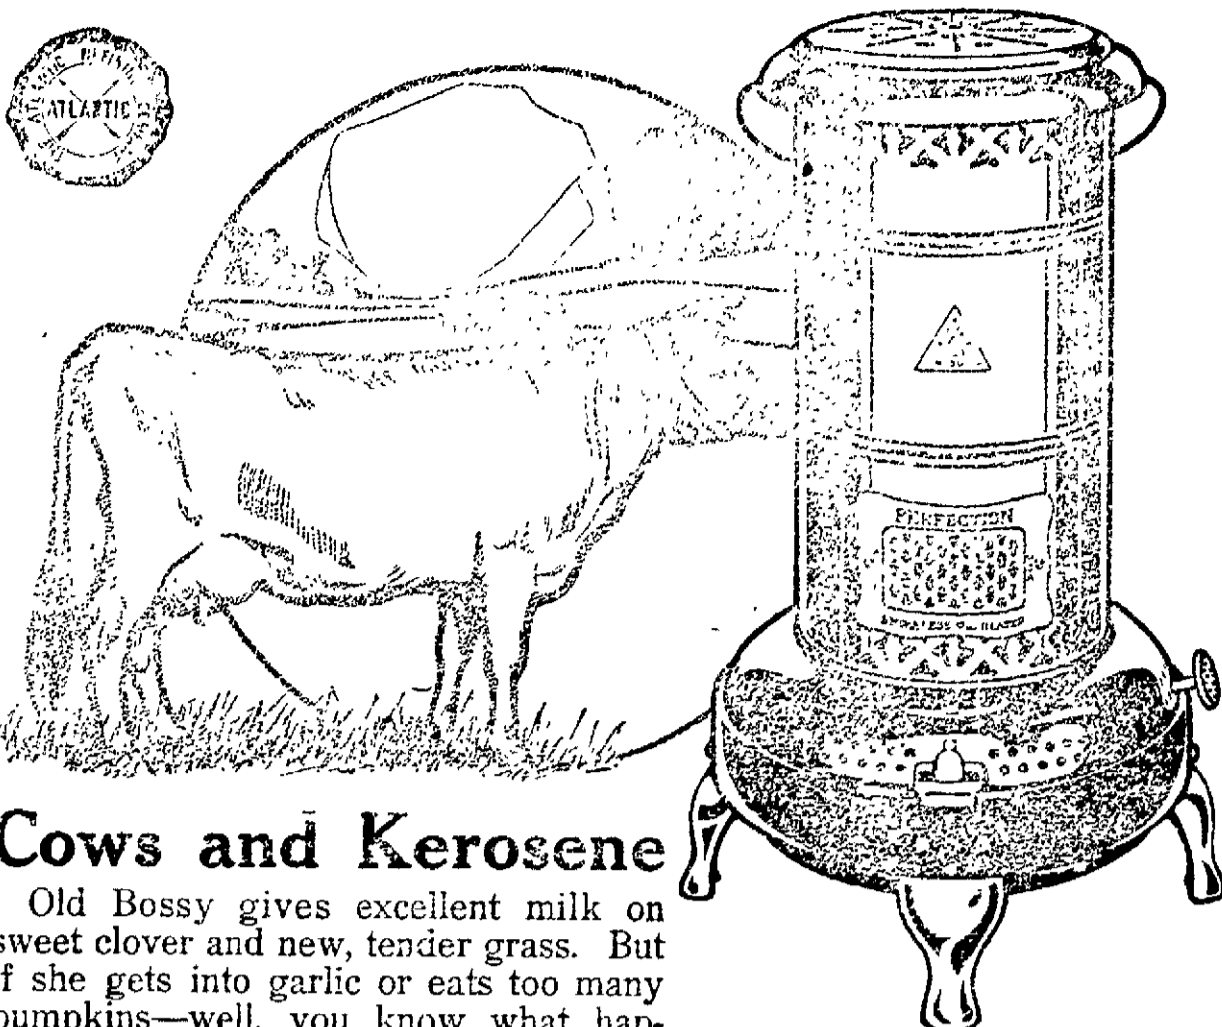

A delightful song service was followed with the reading of the 1st Psalm and prayer by Rev. Gladfelter.

Ten of the fifteen schools in the district were represented by reports, delegates, superintendent or pastor and some by all four. Those who entirely ignored the convention call are Heidlersburg United Brethren, Mt. Victory, Latimore Brethren, Idaville Evangelical, and Idaville United Brethren.

Of the eight departments organized in this district five superintendents responded with work accomplished or attempted. One of the absentees sent an excuse, the other two none.

Miss Nettie Swartz, County Superintendent of Missions brought a most urgent plea for her department. We cannot believe in the Bible and say we do not believe in missions. The first promise in the Bible is a missionary one and all through from Genesis to Revelations it is full of missionary calls. Spread the Gospel, tell the story at home first and then to the uttermost parts of the earth. If God could not save the world without a broken heart and bleeding side we cannot expect to go through the world on flowery beds of ease. All churches do not spend over 20 million dollars a year for missions and the United States alone spends yearly one billion nine hundred million for tobacco. There are twelve thousand churches in America giving nothing to missions and one hundred thousand souls are dying every day who have never heard the Gospel story. God has provided for the needs of the world but He has chosen to work through human agency and we will be held responsible for those who do not hear the Word. The operation of the Holy Spirit upon other people depends upon how much you will let God use you. God means that you and I shall have a part in saving the world by witnessing for Him.

JUST BOX OF CARDBOARD

Hundreds of Italian Families Use Invention Costing Them Only a Few Cents.

Every American housekeeper who owns a fireless cooker knows that it allows her to go to a matinee and find the dinner all ready on her return. But it is to the honor and glory of Mrs. Giuseppina Bianchi Geisser of Turin, Italy, that she has discovered endless cooking possibilities in the cardboard box that took home her last Easter hat, says a New York World correspondent. This is how to do it:

Take your strongest cardboard hat box, and make sure it is neither broken nor cracked. See that the cover shuts tight. These two conditions are absolutely essential. Fill your box with either cotton-wool, sawdust or hay, well packed in and perfectly dry. Make in the middle of this mass a hollow big enough to hold your casserole, covering it up with the cotton-wool, sawdust or hay—cotton-wool is really the best. Put whatever you want to cook into your casserole. Boil it on the fire for from ten to thirty minutes, according to the nature of your food, then put it in your hat box, where it will cook as in the most expensive fireless cooker. Then go to your matinee. Mrs. Geisser says that you can leave it four hours without hurting the meat or stew. All the flavor is retained, for, being hermetically sealed, the juices are preserved. Boil the vegetables ten to fifteen minutes over the gas cooker or fire before putting into the hat box and keep them there for two hours. Potatoes should be ten minutes on fire and one hour in hatbox, she thinks, and dried chestnuts twenty minutes on fire and two and a half hours in hat box. Mrs. Geisser calculates that even with the hardest foodstuffs her system saves you from 30 to 50 per cent of firing. Food keeps hot for ten hours in the box. The idea has so taken with Turin housewives that hundreds of families are now using it. A local cookery school gives free lessons in the quickest way to turn hat boxes into fireless cookers. One woman discovered that the best way to close up the lid is to sew automatic buttons all around it. All fireless cookers on the market cost a lot of money. This one can be made by any practical woman for a few cents.

Adjusting Burdens of Women.

An English overseer of recruiting expresses the opinion that if flour bags were only a little less cumbersome many men would be obtained for the British army who have now to be exempted because they cannot be spared from grocers' shops. While he admits that successful attempts have been made to introduce woman assistants in grocers' shops, they cannot be expected to shoulder a sack of flour, much less a bag of potatoes. It appears that strong protests are being made to the recruiting authorities by the grocers against the compulsory enlistment of their male assistants of military age. They plead that the men are necessary, as the sacks of flour cannot be lifted by women. Departure from established standards are reputedly less frequent in the United Kingdom than in the United States, but it ought to be possible in the present crisis, when every able-bodied man is needed in the British army, to adjust burdens in grocers' shops to the capacity of female backs without seriously fracturing the unwritten constitution.

Russian Enterprise.

The enterprise of the Russian peasants is continually giving evidence of the nation's readiness for progress. The phenomenal success of the consumers' leagues has enabled the establishment of numerous factories and distributing centers on capital owned by the peasants themselves. The not-taken impression of the mujik as a moneyless dweller on the soil is brought into sharp contrast by the realization that the Russian peasant is now thrifflily investing his savings in industrial enterprises. Thus, the credit society of Sapozhok, government of Riazan, has just bought a factory for the purpose of manufacturing agricultural machinery for 23,000 rubles. Members of the society alone will be employed in making the winnowing and crushing machines.

Chinese Women Students in Japan.

Chinese girl students in Tokyo are no longer the curiosity that they were in former years, there being scarcely any girls' school in the metropolis but has among its students young ladies from China. Many of these girls are studying to become teachers, others are only anxious to acquire new knowledge and become worthy citizens of their country. There are 20 Chinese women, mostly married, studying at Mme. Yoshioka's Medical School for Women, Kawadacho, Ichigaya. These naturally wish to go into practice when they have completed their studies.—Herald of Asia.

SEPARATE RAYS OF SUNLIGHT

Just How It May Be Broken Up to the Human Eye, in a Variety of Ways.

Sunlight, which we call white, is composed of light rays of different colors—red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo and violet. It can be broken up into its constituent colors in various ways. If it passed through a transparent prism (like the crystals that hang from a chandelier), or if it falls on a surface which has almost invisibly minute irregularities (like mother of pearl or the wing of a butterfly), we see the rays into which sunlight has been separated. These phenomena are observed when light is not absorbed, says Popular Science Monthly. Hold a piece of red glass in front of flame and we see only red. Rays of all other colors have been absorbed. The natural colors of the objects we see about us, leaves, flowers, books and chairs, depend upon absorption. A green leaf throws back chiefly green rays; the rest are absorbed. So, the natural color of everything in nature is the unabsorbed residue from full white light. There is no such thing as color by itself.

A swarm of minute particles, scattered in the path of white light, will break it up, like the surface of mother of pearl. If the particles happen to be of just the right size and the spaces between them just the right distance, they will absorb rays of one color only and throw off the rest. The atmosphere is filled with countless dust particles, and their size and spacing is such that they scatter rays which we call sky blue. Nearer the horizon, larger particles turn the blue into white; this happens above a dusty town and when mists or clouds hang above us. All that is left of white sunlight, after passing through many miles of blue scattering air, appears in the hues of sunset. The size and spacing of dust particles as well as the angle at which sunlight strikes them determines the color of the sky.

Lithography.

The first successful example of the lithographic art was produced 120 years ago by Aloys Senefelder, a Bavarian, who produced a piece of music printed by this process. Senefelder was a composer, but he was too poor to bear the cost of having his works published. He then began to experiment with the hope of discovering some cheap method by which he could do the printing himself. The lithographic process was suggested to him by his having made for his mother a memorandum of clothes to be sent to the washerwoman. He carelessly wrote this memorandum on a slab of stone, intending to copy it. As the stone lay before him he thought of trying the effect of applying printer's ink to the lines and thus take an impression. The experiment led to others, and in 1796 Senefelder produced a piece of music from lines drawn in slight relief on a slab of stone. The inventor obtained a patent for his process in several of the German states, and labored to extend his art throughout Europe. Everywhere it met with favor, especially in France.—New York Mail.

Tiber Towing Paths.

The navigation of the Tiber has been one of the first considerations of Signor Bonomi, minister of public works, who has initiated a project to re-establish the old towing paths, following upon the study of the question made by a commission nominated by his predecessor in the ministry. Prior to 1842 vessels were towed up the Tiber by men or oxen as far as Ponte Felice about 144 kilometers from the mouth of the river, then steam tugs were used for the purpose, running from the sea to Orte, but the towing path was still maintained for the unloading of goods along the route as well as for towing. With the development of railways, however, the river transport fell into disuse, as both the bed of the Tiber and the towing path were no longer kept in proper condition, but now that works have been executed to facilitate the navigation of the Tiber from the sea to Rome and from Rome to Orte, it has become a matter of necessity to reopen the towing paths.

Chance for Good Work.

Fathers and grandfathers may talk longingly of "the good old days," but what lad of a generation ago was ever given a transcontinental trip as a reward for excellence in agriculture? Yet more than 30 California boys are to be so recompensed this autumn, and though the main purpose of the trip is to bring them into contact with almost every prominent type of agriculture in the United States, it will naturally bring them in touch with much else worth seeing and knowing. For instance, while in Massachusetts, the boys are to visit, not only farms and markets, but also universities and historic buildings. What state will first arrange such a trip for the girls who excel in household economics?

Indians Made Rich.

The Indian bureau at Washington during the last three years, has collected for and paid to American Indians, who are its wards, the tidy sum of $5,563,000 in royalties on oil lands which they own. If economic prosperity insured cultural perfection, the descendants of the Five Tribes resident in Oklahoma would not need to continue to be wards of the government. But wealth may be acquired much faster than capacity to use it aright, as Lowell intimated when he wrote of the "piteous and irreparable poverty of the rich parvenu," and when he said, "The gold of gold is noble use."

Feminine Intuition.

Her—The gentleman you just recognized is an artist, isn't he?
Him—Yes. I presume you divined his profession from his artistic carriage.
Her—No, I didn't notice his carriage. I smelled the turpentine on his clothes.

A Necessary Weakness.

He—The trouble with you women is that you have too much imagination.
She—I don't know. If we didn't imagine you men were a lot better than you are, none of us would ever marry you.

March.

Gerald—Coffee keeps me awake.
Geraldine—Me too. I always drink an extra cup when I know you are coming to call.
